

GREENGUARD Environmental Institute

The GREENGUARD Environmental Institute (GEI) is an industry-independent, non-profit organization that oversees the GREENGUARD Certification Program, the only industry independent certification program for low-emitting products. The program establishes standards for test methods, allowable emissions levels, product sample collection and handling, testing type and frequency, and program application processes and acceptance.

As an ANSI Authorized Standards Developer, GEI establishes acceptable indoor air standards for indoor products, environments, and buildings. The GREENGUARD certification mark helps architects, builders, designers and specifiers identify products and materials that undergo rigorous testing and meet stringent standards for chemical emissions. Currently, more than 120 manufacturers participate in the program, offering over 150,000 products in our online product guide at www.greenguard.org.

GREENGUARD Indoor Air Quality Certified®

Product certification program for low-emitting interior building materials, furnishings, and finish systems. The GREENGUARD Certification Program uses performance-based, field-validated standards to define products and materials with low chemical and particle emissions for use indoors. GREENGUARD requires products to be tested on an annual basis for over 2,000 individual Volatile Organic Compounds (VOCs).

GREENGUARD Children & Schools

Product certification program for low-emitting building materials, furnishings, and finish systems used in educational (daycare and K-12) environments. The GREENGUARD Children & Schools standard evaluates the sensitive nature of school populations combined with the unique building characteristics, and presents the most stringent product emissions criteria to date. Products certified under GREENGUARD Children & Schools are specified in the USGBC's LEED for Schools Rating System and CHPS Best Practices Manual as criteria for low-emitting materials.
